1.1 | WHY CONSULT

1. The Resource Management Act 1991 and associated legislation and regulations establishes principles recognizing the importance of Te Uri o Hau hapu and whanau interests to their estates and territory under Te Tiriti o Waitangi 1840 (Treaty of Waitangi 1840). The Act¹ establishes principles recognising the importance of Maori interests and rights to natural and physical resources. Section 6 of the Act defines matters of national importance in relation to managing the use, development, and protection of natural and physical resources to recognise and provide for the following matters of national importance:
 - a) the preservation of the natural character of the coastal environment (including the coastal marine area), wetlands, and lakes and rivers and their margins, and the protection of them from inappropriate subdivision, use, and development;
 - b) the protection of outstanding natural features and landscapes from inappropriate subdivision, use, and development;
 - c) the protection of areas of significant indigenous vegetation and significant habitats of indigenous fauna;
 - d) the maintenance and enhancement of public access to and along the coastal marine area, lakes, and rivers;
 - e) the relationship of Maori and their culture and traditions with their ancestral lands, water, sites, waahi tapu, and other taonga;
 - f) the protection of historic heritage from inappropriate subdivision, use, and development; and
 - g) the protection of protected customary rights.
2. Section 7 of the Marine and Coastal Area (Takutai Moana) Act 2011 recognises, and promotes the exercise of, customary interests of Maori in the common marine and coastal area by providing for the participation of affected iwi, hapu, and whanau in the specified conservation processes relating to the common marine and coastal area; for customary rights to be recognised and protected; and for customary marine title to be recognised and exercised.²
3. Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 provides for heritage covenants that may be entered into by Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga with the owner of a historic place, historic area, wahi tupuna, wahi tapu, or wahi tapu area to provide for the protection, conservation, and maintenance of the place, area, wahi tupuna, wahi tapu, or wahi tapu area under Subpart 1 Section 39– Heritage covenants.³ Subpart 2 of the Act provides for the overarching protection of archaeological sites. Under Section 42 an archaeological site must not be modified or destroyed unless an authority has been granted by the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga.⁴ We recommend that resource consent applicants or their planners check the New Zealand Archaeological Association database or Cultural Heritage Index for known archaeological sites, prior to making an application to Council.
